City starts program to 'calm' traffic on residential streets

From the West Sacramento Police Department

The police department, responding to concerns about high traffic volumes and speeds in West Sacramento neighborhoods, has created a "Residential Traffic Calming Program" (RTCP) to establish policies and a process for addressing these problems on residential streets.

A draft report of the RTCP will be the topic of discussion at a special city traffic committee meeting on Thurs., Jan. 8, at 5:30 p.m. in the city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd. Residents are invited to attend the meeting and there will be an opportunity for public comment.

Trustees offer $20,000 contract to raise test scores

By Steve Marschke

In an unusually hasty process, a majority of the Washington Unified School Board voted earlier this month to hire Philip Grignon, a Southern California consultant, to teach district administrators how to raise the standardized test scores of local kids.

In the agenda packet for the board's action item, few details were given about Grignon, his methods, or his success in other districts. Instead, Superintendent Dennis Kelleher provided additional information to the board following a trip to Southern California two days before the board vote.

Board members, Irene Eklund, Pat Flint and Hal Williams supported offering Grignon the $20,000 contract, while board president Ardeene Westvik and member Juan Barcenas abstained.

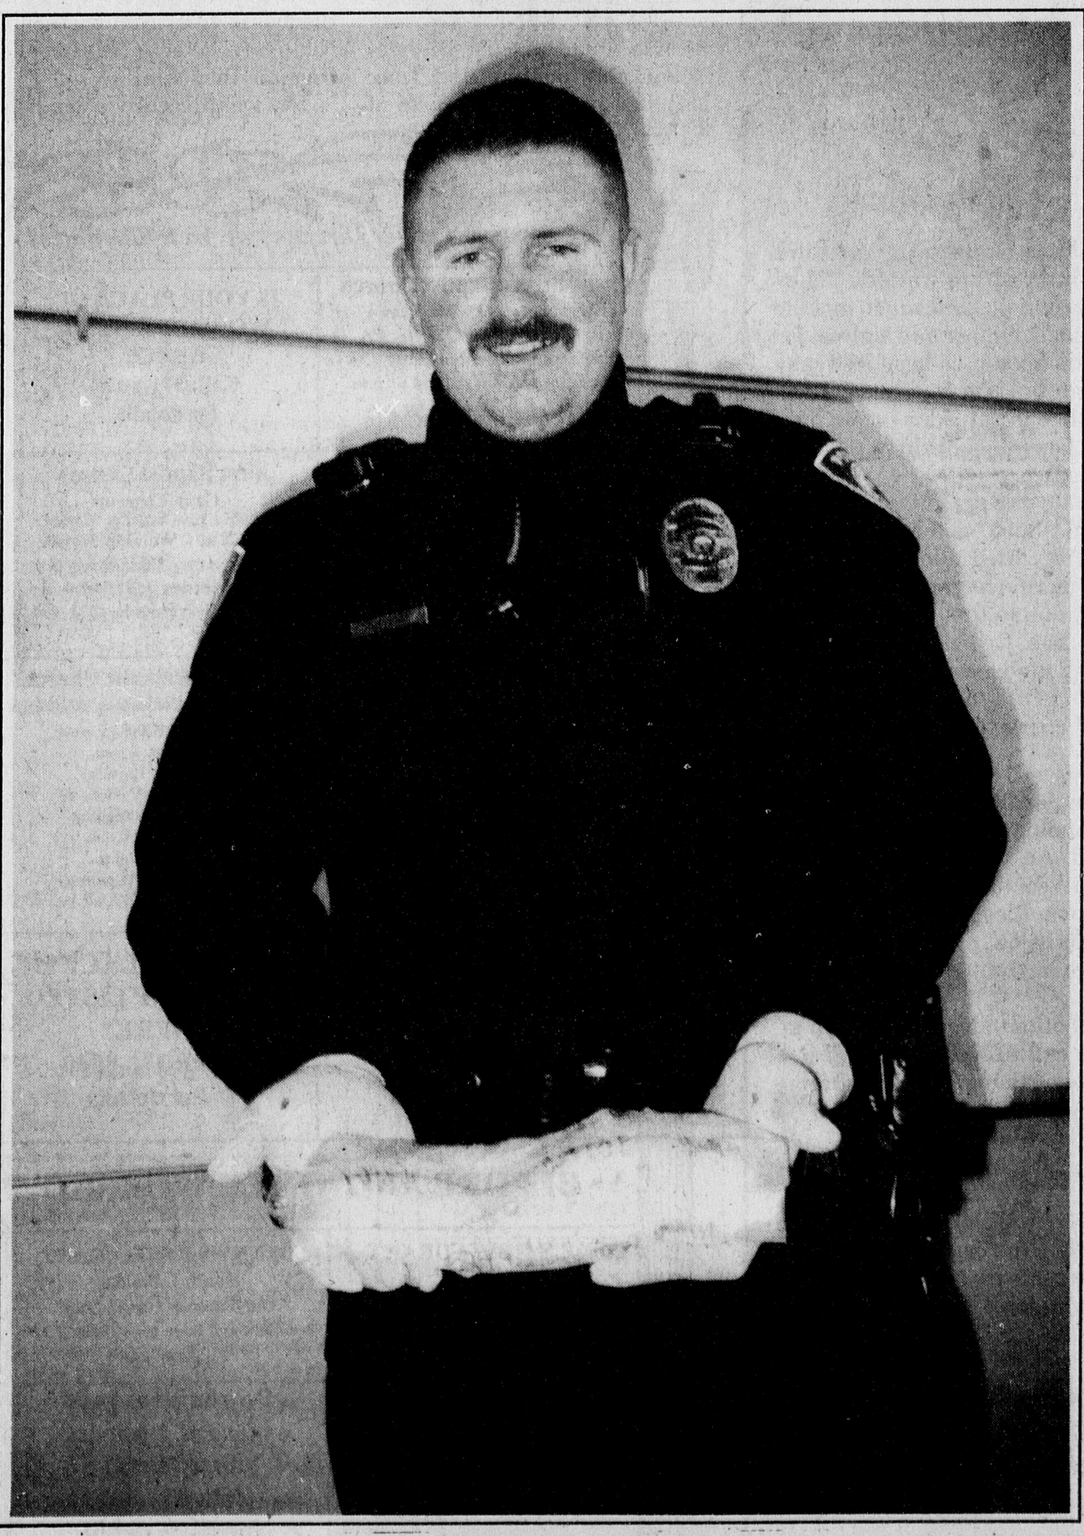
"The purpose of this contract is to help students achieve better test scores," said Westvik, "but how he is going to do this, I haven't the foggiest. I abstained because I feel we did not have sufficient information," said board president Westvik.

"I talked to board members (from a school district which had worked with Grignon) and I got pros and cons and I felt very ill at ease voting for this," she added.

The board majority hopes Grignon can help local schools achieve better ratings in standardized educational tests.

A representative from the Washington Teachers Association, the district teachers' union, spoke out against the contract at the board meeting.

Suspected drug stash found in truck



■ Traffic stop and exposed plastic bag lead to discovery of about a pound of illegal drug methamphetamine

A traffic faux pas in front of a West Sacramento police officer early Tuesday morning led to the seizure of about a pound of methamphetamines -- one of the two biggest such seizures in the city's ten year history.

Office Jason Winger was driving east bound on West Capitol Ave. at about 1:40 a.m. (the graveyard shift) when a pickup truck pulled into the street and turned directly into his path -- the wrong way in his lane.

"Basically, I had to take evasive action to avoid being hit," said Winger.

The officer pulled the pickup over and contacted the driver, West Sacramentan Robert Kelley, 29.

He also noticed some plastic sticking out of one of the four mounting holes in the corners of the truck's bed.

"I pulled it out and looked at it," said Winger. "Once I smelled it, I noticed the odor of the chemicals used in the manufacture of methamphetamines."

Meanwhile, Leona Anderson, 43 years old and also of West Sacramento, emerged from a nearby market and explained that it was her truck Kelley was driving.

Officer Winger and his backup arrested both.

Lt. Ray Hensley said YONET, the Yolo County Narcotics Enforcement Team, had been contacted for further investigation. One department official estimated the street value of the seized drug at about $5,000.

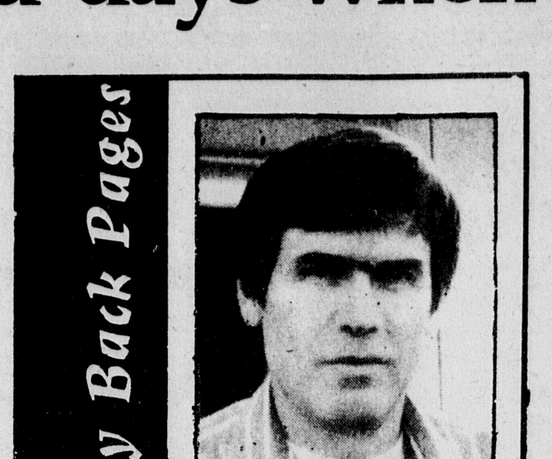
The good old days when Santa Claus used to care



Unfortunately, when you get to be my age, Santa Claus is no longer the loveable gift-giver he once was. He still looks pretty much the same, with his big belly, fluffy white beard and wind-chilled pink cheeks, but for me, that magical black bag which is always slung over his sturdy shoulder at this time of year has sadly changed forever. And why is that, you ask?

Well, to be brutally honest about it, it's because for the past few decades or so, none of the really good stuff in Santa's bag has ever been packaged up and handed over to me.

No longer do I get to wait with excitement for Santa to bring me a Davy Crockett coonskin hat, or a pair of Roy Rogers six-shooters, or a shiny new dump truck. Nor do I hold my breath in expectation of a Lone Ranger mask, or a brand new baseball glove, or even enough tiny green plastic soldiers to put on a decent war in my parents flower bed. No, I'm afraid when it comes to Santa Claus, growing up just ain't what it's cracked up to be.

When I tried to explain this cruel reality to my daughter the other evening, she just smiled and said, "Well, that's what you get for not writing a letter to Santa."

"No, no" I said, "it's a much bigger problem than that. You see, even if Santa did manage to come up with a sheriff's badge just like the one Marshall Dillon used to wear in Gunsmoke, I still think something has gone out of Christmas for me."

"Well," she suggested with sincerity, "just remember, Christmas is not about you getting a really good gift -- it's about making sure you get me one."

Anyway, as the years have worn on, I have counted my blessings and quietly resigned myself to receiving socks, ties, shirts, and an occasional sweater for Christmas. This year, however, I did drop a few hints that I wouldn't mind getting a good book in my Christmas stocking. "What kind of book?" asked my wife, who has long been registered in the North Pole as one of Santa's helpers.

"Oh, I don't know," I said. "I want Santa to surprise me, just like he used to do when I was a kid."

"Okay," she said, "but don't be surprised if Santa gets it all wrong, because she is EXTREMELY busy at this time of year and doesn't really enjoy hunting all over town for a book you might not even like. You see, it's much easier for Santa when she has a clue about what you want."

"Oh, that's all right," I assured her. "I trust Santa's judgement."

At first, it was a little difficult to get excited about getting a book entitled, Liberty -- The American Revolution, but just listen to some of this great stuff. Did you know that William Pitt was the Winston Churchill of his time, and the man who rescued England from defeat in the Seven Years War? Or that Americans owed English merchants six million pounds on the eve of the American Revolution? Or that the first American song, entitled "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free" was published in Philadelphia in 1759? Or that hair styles became extreme in the 1770's, with women sporting towers of real and artificial hair up to twenty-four inches in height? Or that in the eighteenth century, most American girls married when they were 13 or 14 years of age, and that it was rare to see a maid unmarried at 18? Or that one of Abigail Foote's typical days consisted of the following: Fix'd a gown for Prude -- Mended mother's riding hood -- fixed two gowns for the Welsh girls -- spun linen -- worked on the cheese -- hatchel'd flax with Hannah -- pleated and ironed -- read a sermon -- spooled for awhile -- milked the cows -- made a broom of Guinea wheat straw -- spun more thread -- and scoured the pewter? Or that tomatoes were not considered edible back then? Or that it was common for everyone to begin their day with a stiff drink and that colonial Americans drank enough hard cider in a single day to make modern Americans "woozy for a week?" Or that there were 3,500 practicing doctors in America on the eve of the Revolution, and only 200 of them had medical degrees? Or that dentists were nonexistent and it was not uncommon for Americans to lose half their teeth by the age of thirty? Or that Paul Revere never said: "The British are coming!" Instead, he shouted: "The regulars are coming out!"

Well, I guess reading Liberty -- The American Revolution isn't quite as exciting as playing all day and night under the Christmas tree with a brand new Lionel electric train set, but as one of my sons tried to explain to me, "We've got Nintendo, Dad. Who needs a stupid train that just goes around and around in circles?"

The NFL playoffs are set as 12 teams are set to battle their way to San Diego, the site of Super Bowl XXXII. In the NFC, the Lions, led by Barry Sanders recording breaking day, beat the Jets to clinch a wild-card spot and travel to Tampa Bay next Sunday. The Vikings beat the Colts for the last wild-card spot and head East to play the New York Giants. The Packers and 49ers have a first round bye and play on Jan. 3 or 4th at home.

The 49ers finished the season 13-3 to secure the home-field advantage throughout the playoffs, even after their season ending loss to Seattle on Sunday. Steve Young won his record-tying sixth passing title in seven years. Young finished with a 104.7 passing rating. The Niners pulled out their starters in the second quarter to protect their line up for their first playoff game on Jan. 3 or 4 at 3Com Park. The 49ers will play the lowest-remaining seed determined by next week's wild card games. If Minnesota beats the Giants the 49ers will the Vikings. If the Giants win, the Niners will host the winner of the Detroit-Tampa Bay game.

The Giants will win 28-17 and if Tampa Bay can stop Sanders they will head to San Francisco for the big pay back! Tampa Bay 24-Detroit 23!

In the AFC, the Steelers and Chiefs will enjoy their first round byes, while the Broncos host the Jacksonville Jaguars on Saturday and Miami and New England play each other again. With the Jets loss, both the Dolphins and Patriots back in the playoffs, with the winner of the Monday night game winning the division and hosting their wild-card rematch on Sunday.

The Broncos, who were upset last year by the Jaguars, will not choke this year! Denver 31 - Jacksonville 24.

The Dolphins and Patriots will probably have a wild double-overtime game with the home team winning!

The Raiders (4-12) finished the season on a losing note but they did manage a few things to be happy about for next season. Jeff George won the AFC passing title and the Raiders earned the No. 4 spot in the April draft behind the Colts, Cardinals and Chargers. Also Tim Brown broke four Raiders receiving records on Sunday, including Fred Biletnikoff's career total of 587 catches. He finished the season with 599 career catches and finished as the AFC receiving champion with 104, tieing Detroit's Herman Moore for the NFL crown.

The 1998 schedules of opponents are set for the 49ers and Raiders. The 49ers play their divisional rivals and will host the Colts, Giants, Jets and Lions. They will have to travel back East to play New England, Washington, Buffalo and GREEN BAY! The Raiders will play their AFC West teams and travel to Baltimore, Dallas, Arizona and Buffalo, while hosting the Redskins, Giants, Bengals and the loser of Dolphins/ Patriots game on Monday night.

See ya next week and MERRY CHRISTMAS!!!

News-Ledger Editorial

Plan to trade trees isn't good enough

In the hopes, once again, of priming the pump for the Lighthouse project along West Sacramento's Broderick riverfront, city officials plan to widen the 5th Street approach to the development.

Casualties of this project will include nine large native oak trees, including two which qualify for protection as "heritage" trees.

To "mitigate" -- or minimize the damage from -- this destruction, the city plans to plant nine young, small oaks somewhere in the nearby neighborhood. This done, the nine-for-nine trade will leave the city with a "less than significant impact," according to a city planning department report.

Whether or not the trees have to go, this claim of "less than significant" impact doesn't meet the standards of common sense. If the city takes down a century-old oak tree, over a hundred inches around, in a local neighborhood and replaces it with a young one from a 24-inch pot, the result won't be an even trade -- at least until another hundred years go by. We shouldn't pretend that it is an even trade.

West Sacramento's own city tree ordinance is designed to protect these trees because the city, in adopting the ordinance, decided trees like this were worth saving. True, a permit can be issued for their destruction in the event the city manager determines that economic benefit and other factors leave no choice but to take out one of these grand old landmarks. But this is not a decision to be taken lightly, and when such a tree is removed, proper mitigation ought to be attempted.

This is especially true when the party which wants to chop down a landmark tree is the city itself.

What kind of precedent does it set for the city of West Sacramento to give itself a permit to remove nine protected trees -- including two "heritage" oaks -- and then to mitigate this damage with only a one-for-one planting of young trees elsewhere? Can we really pretend that a new oak in a 24 inch pot can cancel out the loss of one which is a hundred feet tall, but which was removed because West Sacramento still hopes to make a partially failed residential project a success?

Won't other area developers and landowners insist on the same deal the city hopes to give itself, saying that they too should be allowed to remove a landmark tree which is in their way, as long as they agree to plant a sapling somewhere in the same neighborhood?

What effect will this precedent have on the performance of the city's tree ordinance and its attempt to preserve major local trees as a community asset?

Several of the people involved in the fight to get the city to reconsider its plans for these nine oaks were also involved in the successful effort to get the city council to save the old Washington Firehouse nearby. But this battle may be tougher.

There was no developer or development project crying for the removal of that New Deal-era firehouse. But there is a city-aided development which is inconvenienced by the existence of the nine oak trees.

Whether or not the city can find a way to leave these trees standing, however, it is imperative that the community decide whether it supports the tree ordinance which places a high value on landmark trees. If it does, then the city will have to re-think its plans for these nine oaks, including their planned removal and the planned mitigation measures.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

May all our readers and (let's be magnanimous) all other West Sacramentans find 1998 to be full of wonderful things, and may the coming good far outweigh the bad. Now it's time to bind up another year of News-Ledger issues and pack them off to the archives. . .

Letters to the Editor

There when I needed them. ..

On Sunday, Dec. 14, 1997, I had occasion to call 911 due to an emergency situation. Joe Myers, Adrian Martinez and another West Sacramento City Fire Department staff person arrived to assist me. It was very reassuring to recognize Joe's face and have him and the others administer care to me. Also, Martha Anderson (my cousin) and Rose Lopez (a friend) were there at my side offering comfort to me.

Thank you all for your outstanding professionalism, concern, speed and efficiency in meeting my needs.

Hannah recovering

We would like to express our heartfelt gratitude for the overwhelming support we received last year during our daughter Hannah's illness and rehabilitation.

To everyone in the community who donated, attended fundraisers, prayed or gave support of any kind -- thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

A very special thank you to the members of the Moose Lodge for their fundraiser and the VFW Hall, FM102 and the Pheasant Club for their wonderful contributions and generosity. Also to Helen Korbmaker, Kelli and Victor Chairez, Terry and Cindy Connitt, Christie and Russ Kaiser, Michele Pierini, Denise Masuhara and Lori Palamidessi for their very heartwarming efforts and tremendous support. And, especially to my family, my mother and father, Paul and Barbara Houston and my sisters and brothers-in-law Dan and Diana Grant and Rick and Theresa Kain, to whom I will forever be grateful.

Last year, our daughter Hannah, suffered from encephalitis, the virus attacked her central nervous system and left her with brain damage. When Hannah was released from the hospital her doctor's prognosis was very poor, giving her only a 5% to 10% chance of coming out of the semi-coma state she was in. We were also told that she would probably never walk, talk, hear, see or eat.

HANNAH

Well, Baby Hannah has far exceeded all of her doctors' expectations, she can see, hear and walk. She says some words and enjoys food again (the gastric tube has been removed). Though she has been diagnosed with Cerebral Palsy, it appears to be a mild form. She also has a seizure disorder controlled by medication. Hannah currently receives therapy and will for some time.

Thanks again to everyone for everything and God Bless all for your support and prayers. Hannah truly is one of God's miracles. We are very grateful.

Delay deadline on oak trees

Open letter for the West Sacramento City Council:

Dear Mayor Beers and West Sacramento City Council Members:

On December 9 I attended the Washington Neighborhood Council Meeting and was given a copy of the "Mitigated Negative Declaration" with a response date of December 26, 1997. The document was incomplete and a page was missing from everyones copy (page 6).

Since the West Sacramento City Council has postponed their December 17 meeting the public will not have an opportunity to address this issue prior to the Dec. 26, 1997 deadline.

I hereby request that the response date be delayed until the public has an opportunity to respond.

Typo finding contest

West Sacramento residents are now receiving door hangars asking them to support Robert Milbrodt for Yolo County Assessor. Our campaign is aware of its typographical errors. The printer mistakenly used an unedited copy from a computer diskette. Rather than destroy thousands of otherwise useful pieces, we decided to use them, and to extend to the public an opportunity "to turn lemons into lemonade."

We are inviting you, the residents of West Sacramento to circle the errors, write your name and phone number on the card, and mail it to the address (it's correct) on the card. We will have a drawing after all the cards are distributed. Entries will be drawn at random until one correct response is found. The winner will receive $50. The winner will be notified by telephone and by a press release to the local newspaper.

This week's 'Sound Off' comment:

For those of us filled with the holiday spirit and wanting to give and give:

I see people soliciting for money like the couple with the wheelchair the other day. A very nice West Sacramentan I know who works hard for her money gave them money, and as soon as they pushed the lady in the wheelchair across the street, she got up out of the wheelchair and went into the liquor store and bought a bottle of booze. . .

We'd like to invite you to drop off a color or black-and-white photo of yourself when you submit a letter to the editor.

Happy New Year from your friends at the News-Ledger. We're looking forward to the next three decades with you.

"NOTICE to the WEST SACRAMENTO COMMUNITY"

FROM: WASHINGTON UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT (W.U.S.D.)
DATE: December 18, 1997
RE: THOMAS EDWARD LANNI SCHOOL BUS SAFETY ACT (AB 1297) OF 1997

New California State Legislation designed AB 1297 to increase the safety of school bus riders becomes effective January 1, 1998. This new law is known as the Thomas Edward Lanni Schoolbus Safety Act of 1997, also referred to as AB 1297. This law requires all school bus drivers to flash their red lights every time they stop to load or unload pupils, regardless of whether the pupils will cross the street.

In 1994, Thomas Edward Lanni, 7 years old, was hit and killed by a pickup truck as he was crossing the road after he exited from his school bus. The driver didn't know Thomas would try to cross the street and hadn't activated the bus's red-light warning system.

Most other states are required by law to activate their red-light warning system whenever students load or unload. California is one of the few states that doesn't. But, California is the only state who's school bus drivers escorts pre-kindergarten, kindergarten and grades 1-8 inclusive, across the street. California will be the only state in the United States that activates their red-light warning system for loading and unloading and escorts pupils across the street.

In addition to the activation of the Red-light warning system, this new law requires the superintendent of the school district to prepare a Transportation Safety Plan. This plan shall be on file at each school that provides transportation to or from school or school activity trips.

The W.U.S.D. Transportation Safety Plan shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

A) The District must identify all stops requiring pupils to be escorted and then identify the individual students requiring escort at those stops.

B) Instruction on:

1.) Passenger safety

2.) General Rules of Conduct at school bus loading zones

C) A procedure for Red-Light Crossing

D) Procedures to ensure pupils board and exit the bus at their own stops.

E) Instruction for all pupils, pre-kindergarten thru 12, inclusive, in school bus emergency procedures and passenger safety.

F) Information, upon registration of all pupils not previously transported in a school bus who are in pre-kindergarten, kindergarten and grades 1-6, inclusive, on school bus safety. The information shall include, but not be limited to, all of the following:

1) A list of school bus stops near each pupil's home.

2) General rules of conduct at school bus loading zones.

3) Red Light Crossing Instructions

4) School bus danger zone

5) Walking to and from the school bus stop

G) Emergency evacuation procedure instruction for each pupil transported in a school bus.

H) Safety instructions prior to departure on a school activity trip, for all pupils riding on a school bus which includes, but is not limited to, location of emergency exits, and location and use of emergency equipment. When the driver gives this information, they are required to supply the information to the transportation office on a form held on file in the transportation office for one year.

I) A procedure that limits the operation of school buses when atmospheric conditions reduce visibility on the roadway to 200 feet or less during home-to-school transportation service.

J) Approved procedures for the transportation of pupil(s) by any district employee including full or part time teachers, coaches, nurses, therapists, aids, administrative staff, etc. The plan includes all district personnel and not limited to the school bus drivers only.

K) Specific procedures to follow regarding discharging students at stops other than the designated stop under situations such as going home with a friend, doctor appointments, parental emergencies, etc.

Monday, January 5, will be the first day most of the drivers will activate bus stop lights. On December 18, the drivers passed out flyers to each of their student riders in the afternoon - explaining the new law. Hopefully, these flyers will be shared with the student bus riders parents.

The W.U.S.D. Transportation Safety Plan will be ready for review after January 13, 1998. The Plan shall include a list of pupils requiring escorted crossing as required by AB 1297.

Please direct all questions or concerns to the Washington Unified School District Transportation Department at 375-7690.
